Teaching Experience

2011 – present: Senior Lecturer in Health Psychology
Department of Psychology
University of Southampton

I am module convenor for one of the core modules in the MSc in Health Psychology programme: Psychology and the Delivery of Health Care. I am also co-teaching (with Professor Roger Ingham) an undergraduate options course (Current Issues in Social Psychological Approaches to Health).

2010 – 2011 Lecturer
Department of Psychology
Brunel University

I was module convenor for a Level 3 undergraduate course (Understanding Health) and also taught on a Level 2 undergraduate course (Research Methods). For the MSc. in Psychology, Health, and Behaviour program, I contributed to two modules: Multidisciplinary Approaches to Health and Managing Illness. I was a guest lecturer on a Level 1 module (Individual and Social Processes).

2008 Guest lecturer for undergraduate course (“Gender development: Biological, psychological, and clinical perspectives”)
Department of Social and Developmental Psychology
University of Cambridge

2004 – 2010: Research Tutor
Oxford Doctoral Course in Clinical Psychology (ODCCP)
Isis Education Centre
Warneford Hospital, Oxford

The ODCCP is a 3-year doctoral NHS training course (leading to the D. Clin. Psych. degree) that is validated by the University of Oxford. My responsibilities included: (1) research supervision of trainees’ small-scale research projects and dissertations; (2) contributing to the clinical and academic teaching program; (3) selection of trainees; (4) planning and running supervision workshops for research supervisors; (5) acting as appraiser for individual students; (6) marking of written work; (7) liaison with research supervisors; (8) internal examiner for dissertations; (9) contributing to the planning of the curriculum, particularly the research component of the course. During the six years I worked in this post, there were 60 doctoral students enrolled each year.

2002 – 2004: Clinical Assistant Professor
Department of Gender Studies

Indiana University

I taught two new courses in this department: a graduate course (Gender, Contraception, and Culture), and an undergraduate course (Gender and Sexual Behavior). I also worked on the development of a new graduate course for the department (Gender Studies Professional Development).

1999 – 2004:

Director of Graduate Education

The Kinsey Institute for Research in Sex, Gender, and Reproduction

In my role as Director of Graduate Education, I worked on: (1) expanding the existing Ph.D. Minor in Human Sexuality; (2) new graduate education initiatives such as the development of two graduate courses offered by the Kinsey Institute (Sexual Science Research Seminar and Practicum in Sex Therapy); (3) a series of Summer Research Institutes for graduate students; and (4) a number of grant applications for funding graduate student training, including a National Institute of Mental Health R25 grant, which funded the Summer Institutes. I was the primary organizer for the 2001 and 2002 Summer Institutes (“Understanding High-Risk Sexual Behavior” and “Interventions for High-Risk Sexual Behavior”). From 2000-2003, I taught a one-year intensive practicum for doctoral students in clinical psychology and counseling (“Practicum in Sex Therapy”) and was the course coordinator for the Sexual Science Research Seminar. I was co-chair of the Interdepartmental Graduate Committee on Human Sexuality, which, together with the Kinsey Institute, organizes the Ph.D. Minor in Human Sexuality offered at Indiana University. I also responded to queries about graduate education related to human sexuality from students and health professionals from around the world.

1996 – 2001:

Adjunct Assistant Professor

Department of Psychology
Indiana University

I taught three undergraduate courses (P324: Abnormal Psychology; P457: Human Sexuality; P204: Psychological and Biological Bases of Human Sexuality) and two graduate courses (P657: Human Sexuality; P690: Practicum in Clinical Psychology: Therapy for Sexual Problems). Three of these courses (P204, P657, and P690) were new offerings in the department. I was a guest lecturer in three graduate psychology courses. I supervised a number of students doing Senior Honors Projects and was the primary advisor for a Ph.D. student in the clinical science program. I served on Ph.D. advisory and qualifying exam and dissertation committees for a number of doctoral students (see ‘Research Supervision’ section).

1993 – 1995:

Lecturer

Department of Psychiatry, University of Edinburgh

My duties in this post included: (1) contributing to the teaching on the M. Phil in Clinical Psychology course; (2) supervising clinical psychology trainees in their clinical work and research; (3) teaching 1st. and 2nd. year medical students, undergraduate psychology students, and trainee psychiatrists; (4) selection of trainees; (5) administrative work relating to the running of the M. Phil course. I also acted as Internal Examiner for ten M. Phil theses submitted in 1993.

1991 – 1995:

Clinical Supervisor

Marriage Counseling Scotland, Edinburgh

I acted as clinical supervisor to two trainees on a 1-year psychosexual training course offered by this organization. This involved regular supervision sessions, evaluation of trainees’ written work, and meetings with the course organizers. I was involved in organizing a series of workshops on sex therapy that were held for NHS staff in 1994. I also led a one-day workshop on sexual abuse and sexual violence.

1990 – 1994: Invited Lecturer
Medical School
University of Edinburgh

I was involved in the teaching program on human sexuality to Phase II and III medical students and acted as discussion leader to small groups of students. I also presented seminars to first-year medical students.

1989 – 1991: Senior Grade Clinical Psychologist
HIV, AIDS and Drugs Service
Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh

In this post I contributed to the teaching, training, and support of medical and nursing staff within the hospital and of others working in the HIV, AIDS, and Drugs service.

1987: Facilitator
Human Sexuality Program
University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ)
Robert Wood Johnson Medical School

The course on human sexuality at UMDNJ is an intensive week-long program of presentations made by individual speakers, invited panels, workshops, and discussion groups. I acted as a facilitator in discussion groups.

1984 – 1988: Teaching Assistant
Department of Psychology
McGill University
Montreal, Canada

I was employed as a teaching assistant on the following courses: Women and Men: The Psychology of Sex Differences; Personality and Social Psychology; Advanced Study in Behavioral Disorders. The latter course involved the supervision of undergraduate psychology students who were doing placements in clinical settings.

1982 – 1984: Basic Grade Clinical Psychologist
District Psychological Services
St. George's Hospital, Stafford

As a clinical psychologist working in this hospital, I was responsible for running weekly seminars on clinical theory and practice for undergraduate psychology students in the Department. I contributed to the teaching program for the psychiatric nurses, giving lectures and conducting a one-day workshop on Social Skills Training. I was also involved in the organization of two symposia on psychosexual counseling for Marriage Guidance Counselors and Family Planning staff in the district.

Research Supervision

2010 – 2011: I was undergraduate Dissertations Convenor for the Department of Psychology in the 2010-2011 academic year at Brunel University. I was Dissertation Supervisor for two students enrolled in the MSc. in Psychology, Health, and Behaviour, and for three undergraduate students completing psychology dissertations. I was also second supervisor for one Ph.D. student.

Research Experience

Selected Research Projects – Completed

1. Menstrual synchrony in undergraduate females residing on a coeducational campus (undergraduate Honors B.A. dissertation). (1980)
2. Menstrual synchrony: An effect of social interaction on the timing of the menstrual cycle (Master of Applied Science thesis). (1982)
3. The relationship between retrospective premenstrual symptom reporting and present oral contraceptive use (pilot study for Doctoral thesis). (1987)
4. Treatment of premenstrual syndrome with a triphasic oral contraceptive: A double blind, placebo-controlled trial (Doctoral thesis). (1990)
5. Sexual behavior and knowledge about HIV/AIDS among attenders at a Genitourinary Medicine clinic (in collaboration with staff in the Dept. of Genitourinary Medicine, Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh). (1990)
6. The effects of steroidal contraceptives on the well-being and sexuality of women. A double-blind, placebo-controlled evaluation of the effects of progestagen-only and combined oral contraceptives in women using non-steroidal methods of contraception (WHO-funded study, in collaboration with researchers in Manila, Philippines). (1993)
7. A comparison of retrospective assessment with daily records of sexual behavior (a pilot study carried out in collaboration with Dr. Joseph Catania, Family of AIDS Behavioral Survey Study, Center for AIDS Prevention Studies, University of California at San Francisco). (2000)
8. Fragrance as a modulator of sexual arousal in women: Subjective and psychophysiological measures (Principal Investigator; carried out in the Department of Psychology in collaboration with researchers at the Kinsey Institute). (2000)
9. A prospective study of the effects of oral contraceptives on sexuality and well-being and their relationship to discontinuation (in collaboration with Dr. Stephanie Sanders, Dr. John Bancroft, and Jennifer Bass). (2003)
10. Evaluation of the effects of Raloxifene (Evista) on the sexuality and well-being of women (co-investigator, carried out in collaboration with researchers at the Kinsey Institute). (2003)
11. Psychophysiological sexual response patterns in men and women (carried out in collaboration with Dr. Erick Janssen at the Kinsey Institute). (2003)
12. Oral contraceptives, testosterone, and sexuality in women (carried out in collaboration with Dr. Teri Greco, Regenstrief Institute for Health Care, and Dr. John Bancroft, The Kinsey Institute). (2004)
13. Focus group study of factors that affect women's sexual arousal (in collaboration with Dr. Stephanie Sanders, Department of Gender Studies, Indiana University and the Kinsey Institute and Dr. Robin Milhausen, Indiana University). (2003)
14. Sexual inhibition and excitation as a sexual health risk factor (a series of qualitative and quantitative studies, carried out in collaboration with Dr. Stephanie Sanders, Department of Gender Studies, Indiana University and the Kinsey Institute and Dr. Robin Milhausen, University of Guelph, Canada). (2004)

15. What is sex? A public opinion poll of Indiana residents. (a follow-up to the Sanders and Reinisch (1999) study “Would you say you had sex if...”) (in collaboration with Drs. Stephanie Sanders, William Yarber, Richard Crosby, Robin Milhausen, and John Kennedy). (2004)
16. Women’s well-being and sexuality study (an online survey to collect information about sexual functioning and well-being in lesbian and bisexual women, as well as heterosexual women). (in collaboration with Dr. Stephanie Sanders, Department of Gender Studies, Indiana University and the Kinsey Institute and Dr. Jenny Higgins, HIV Center, Columbia University, New York). (2007)
17. Effect of tailored vs. standard use of the combined oral contraceptive on continuation rates at one year (in collaboration with Professor Judith Stephenson, Margaret Pyke Centre, UCL, London).

Ongoing studies

1. Condom errors and problems (a series of studies, carried out in collaboration with Professor William Yarber (Applied Health Science, Indiana University), Professor Stephanie Sanders (Department of Gender Studies, Indiana University and The Kinsey Institute), Professor Richard Crosby (University of Kentucky School of Public Health), and Dr. Robin Milhausen (University of Guelph, Canada).
2. Sexual inhibition/excitation and sexual orientation in women (in collaboration with Professor Stephanie Sanders (Department of Gender Studies, Indiana University and The Kinsey Institute) and Dr. Meredith Chivers (Queen’s University, Canada).
3. Sexual well-being following a Chlamydia diagnosis (in collaboration with Professor Sandra Byers, Lyndsay Foster (both University of New Brunswick, Canada) and Dr. David Goldmeier, Imperial College and St. Mary’s Hospital, London).

Clinical Experience

1997 – 2003: Clinical Psychologist
Kinsey Institute Clinic for Sexual Health
Indiana University Health Center
Bloomington, Indiana

I worked in this weekly clinic that served the community as well as university students and staff, providing assessment and therapy services to clients presenting with sexual problems. I attended a weekly multidisciplinary supervision group, and also provided individual supervision and a weekly seminar to graduate students from a variety of disciplines (Ph.D. Clinical Science, Ph.D. Counseling, M.A. Counseling) who were enrolled in this year-long intensive practicum.

1991 – 1994: Clinical Psychologist
Premenstrual Syndrome Clinic
Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh

I worked in this clinic on a bi-weekly basis, seeing patients attending for treatment of premenstrual syndrome and liaising with general practitioners regarding their management. Treatment interventions used included cognitive therapy, self-management training, and recommendations for hormonal treatments and other medication, made to patients’ general practitioners.

1989 – 1993: Clinical Psychologist
Lothian PMS Support Group,
Stockbridge Health Centre, Edinburgh

This group, which received funding from the Family Planning Association, was an 8-week course offering information and support to women with premenstrual complaints. I was involved in the organization and the running of the groups.

1989 – 1991: Senior Grade Clinical Psychologist
HIV, AIDS, and Drugs Service

Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh (RIE)

Responsibilities for this post, based in the Departments of Genitourinary Medicine and Psychological Medicine, were: (1) to provide a systematic Clinical Psychology service to those who are infected with HIV, to their families, and others who are significantly affected by the disease; (2) to contribute to the prevention of HIV disease through work with those at risk of infection; (3) to provide a clinical case management, supervisory and consultative role to other professions within the RIE; (4) to contribute to the planning, organization, operation, and evaluation of services at RIE for those who are HIV-infected. In addition to the above, I received non-HIV related referrals from a number of departments within the RIE, including Genitourinary Medicine, Neurology, Gynecology, and Surgery.

1986 – 1989: Contract Therapist
Sex Therapy Service, Royal Victoria Hospital
Montreal, Canada

I was involved in the assessment and treatment of individuals and couples presenting with sexual problems. I also attended weekly meetings of the multidisciplinary team that provided the service and made case presentations within the hospital.

1985 – 1988: Clinical Psychologist
Centre Local de Services Communautaires (CLSC)
Metro, Montreal, Canada

In this community-based clinic, I worked with CLSC nursing and social work staff to set up and lead an information/support group for women complaining of premenstrual problems.

1982 – 1984: Basic Grade Clinical Psychologist
District Psychological Services
St. George's Hospital, Stafford

Responsibilities included: (1) the provision of clinical services to two community clinics, a pediatric clinic, an adult out-patient department, and in-patient psychiatric wards; (2) supervision of undergraduate psychology students' research projects; (3) liaising with medical and other hospital/community staff; (4) representation of the Department on committees. I carried a caseload of over one hundred patients and received referrals from a wide range of sources, including general practitioners, psychiatrists, neurologists, cardiologists, and school authorities. I established contact with the local Health Education Department and helped to establish a smoking clinic in the community.
